

Introduction

This guide is a first attempt to identify and describe the maps and plans that accompany the collected papers of Gerrit Smith held by the Syracuse University Library. We hope that it will prove useful in its current edition, while we attempt through further research to add to the information already presented here.

A few notes of explanation to the following descriptions:

- The early surveyors' measurement "chains" is used frequently, especially in the scales of the maps. A chain is equal to 66 feet (80 chains equal to one mile).
- The preferred date given for a map is the "date of situation," when available. That is, if an original survey or publication date is provided, as well as the date for the copy in hand, the date listed is the date of the original.
- Some maps were identified or their identities were confirmed by comparison to maps in two early atlases held in the George Arents Research Library. Notes which mention "Burr" or "Bien" are referring to the following:
 - Bien, Julius Rudolph. Atlas of the state of New York. 1895.
 - Burr, David H. An atlas of the state of New York. 1829.
- The names listed in the Author Index are those determined to have had some responsibility for the production of the map or plan in hand, e.g. surveyor, publisher, or copier from another's original.

Acknowledgements

The authors wish to thank the following persons for their contributions: Michelle Kollmar, Snow Fellow, and Timothy Lewington, graduate assistant, for their technical assistance; Carolyn Davis, Associate Librarian, for background information and historical perspective; and Karen Ingeman, Associate Librarian, for personal and professional support. We also wish to acknowledge the State of New York, Department of Education, Division of Library Development, Coordinated Preservation Program, without whose grant support this project would not have been possible.
