

I'm back once again, in England this time. I enclosed a few pictures with the birthday card. Hope you enjoy. Sorry its late Mom.

I'm in my flat now, but thought I'd add a bit about last night. We missed the last ferry to Dover, and the trains had stopped running for the night, so we had to sleep in the train station with the bums for 6 hours until the first ferry. It was awful. The benches are hard and it was really cold. We were in Ostend, Belgium and didnt have the correct currency, (the Change Bureau was closed) so we couldn't get a hotel.

Does this experience go under the title of "culture"? I feel even more sorry for the bums now. Some of them were real scary characters. Needless to say, we didnt sleep much, we were afraid of our bags being robbed. We tried to take turns in staying up. Its a good thing Helen and I had the guyp near by. We survived, caught our ferry and then missed our train into London and ended up waiting more. The trip home took 25 hours. It was long! I'm glad I'm back. My bed will be cozy tonight!

Good night!
Love Shan
